[illegible]

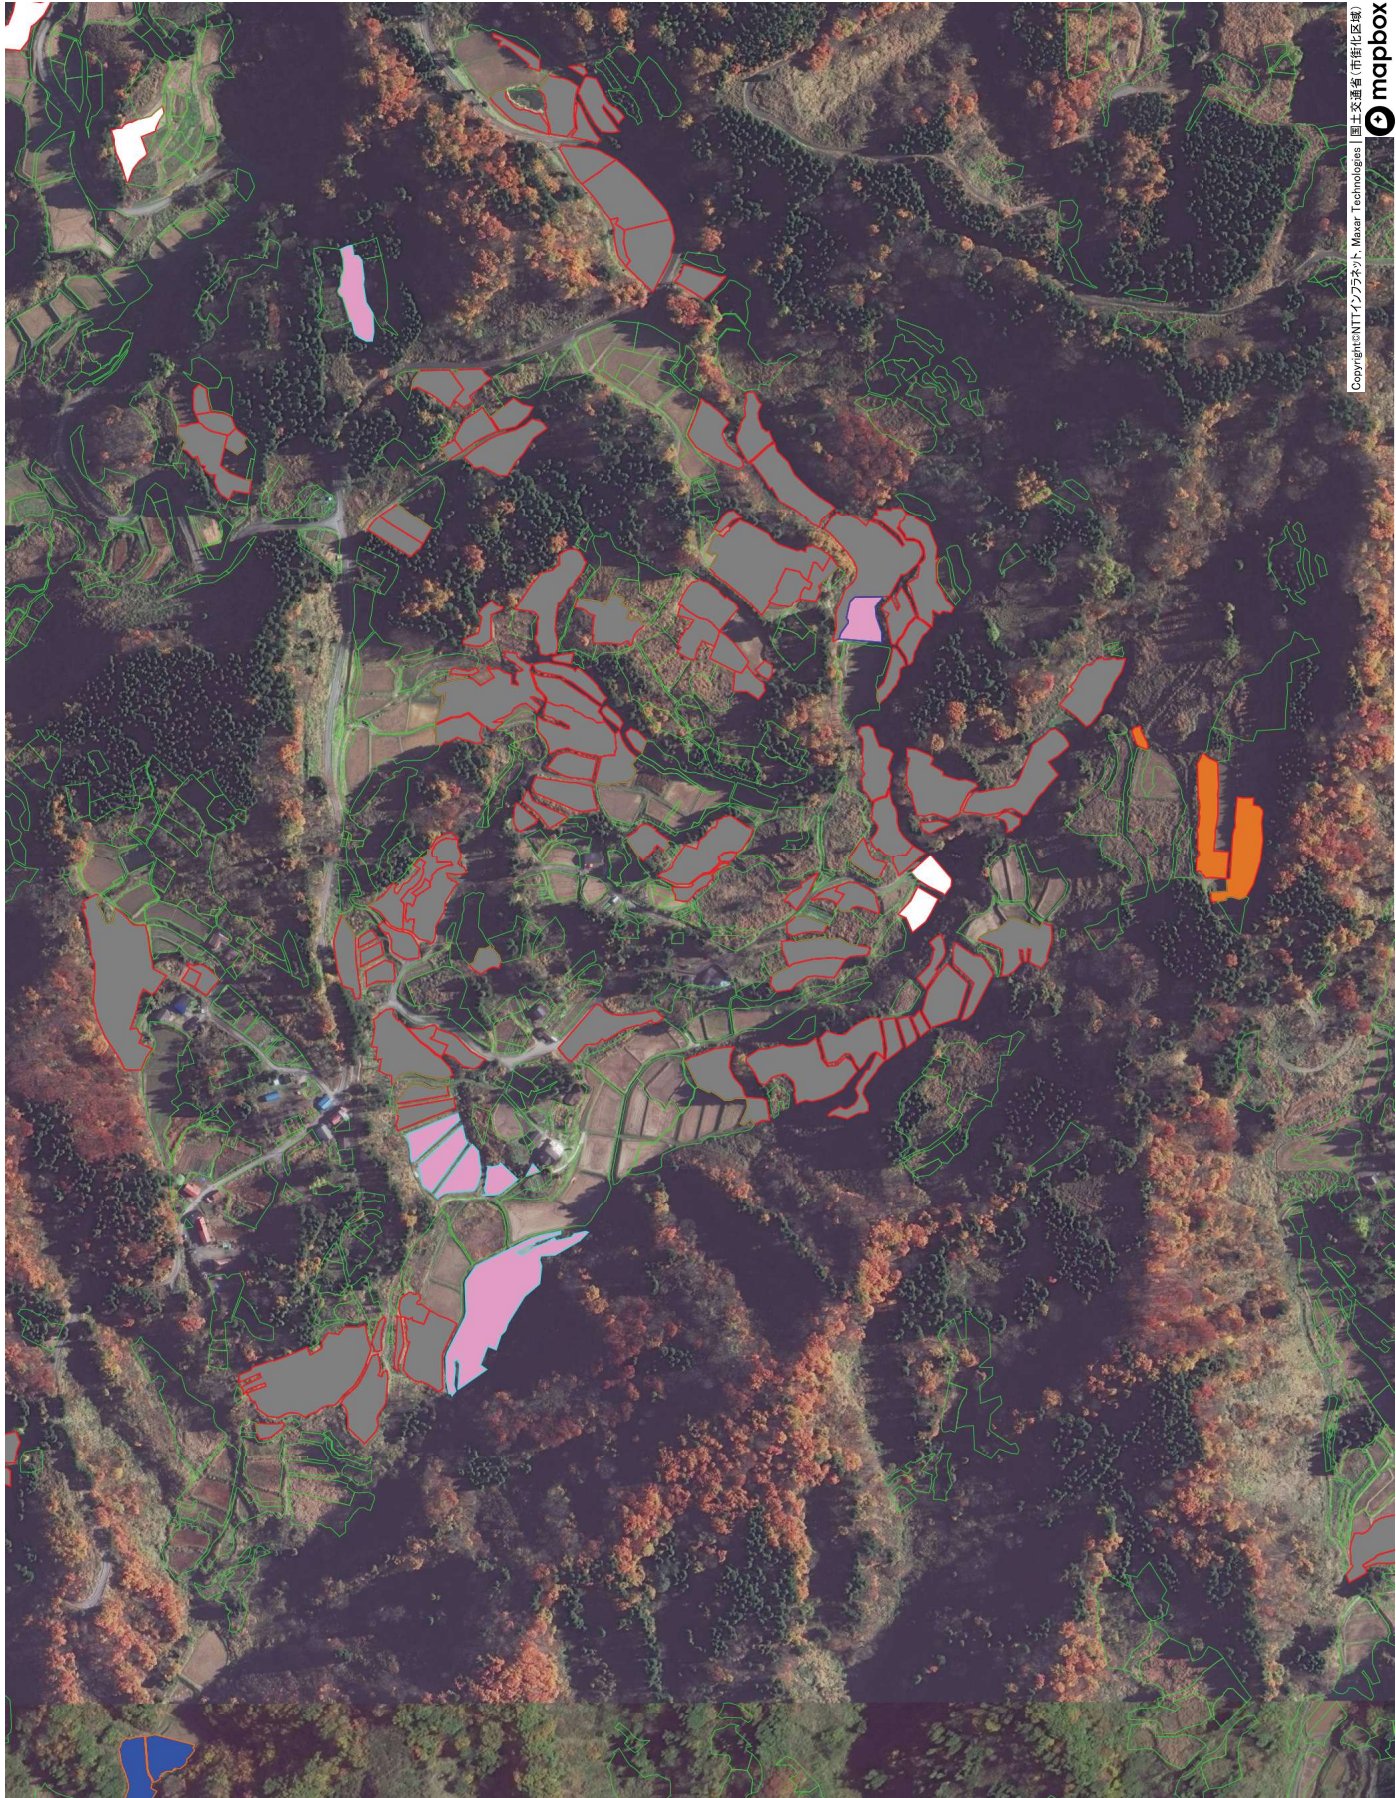

An aerial photograph of a rural landscape featuring a river, a village, and dense forests. Overlaid on the photograph is a cadastral map. The map uses various colors to delineate land parcels: orange for some forested areas, white for agricultural fields, grey for other land parcels, green for small plots, blue for a small pond, and pink for another area. The river flows through the center of the image, and the village is located in the lower-middle section. The forests are predominantly green, with some areas showing autumnal colors. The map lines are thin and black, tracing the boundaries of the parcels across the entire scene.

[illegible]

An aerial photograph of a rural landscape, likely a valley or river valley, showing a winding road and several clusters of buildings. The map is overlaid with semi-transparent colored polygons: green, orange, and white. These polygons highlight specific areas, possibly indicating different land use zones or administrative boundaries. The green areas are scattered throughout the landscape, while orange and white areas are more concentrated in specific clusters, particularly along the road and in the upper right quadrant. The background is a high-resolution aerial image showing vegetation, roads, and buildings.
